The Future of Presbyterians in Arizona: A Day with Phyllis Tickle

Phyllis Tickle has much more to share with us about how we can thrive through the changes we see happening around us. She has delighted audiences across the country with her southern charm and humor, while fostering thoughtful critique on the church as we know it, and how it might be.

Phyllis Tickle is the founding editor of the religion department at Publishers Weekly, and is one of the most highly respected authorities and popular speakers on religion in America today. She is the author of more than two dozen books including The Great Emergence: How Christianity Is Changing and Why, and the Divine Hours series of prayer manuals. A lector and lay eucharistic minister in the Episcopal Church, Tickle is a senior fellow of the Cathedral College of Washington National Cathedral.
